Gulflander

Experience a rail journey unlike any other aboard the legendary Gulflander. Originally built to connect the once bustling river port of Normanton with the rich gold fields of Croydon, today the Gulflander is a tourism icon and a working tribute to the early pioneers of the Gulf of Carpentaria. The Gulflander travels once a week from Normanton to Croydon and return.

Affectionately said to go from "nowhere to nowhere" the Heritage-listed Normanton to Croydon railway line has remained fully isolated from the Queensland Rail network and the only line in Queensland still measured in miles.

The railway line today, retains the original rail and sleepers laid between 1888 and 1891. An ingenious steel sleeper system allows seasonal flood waters to flow gently over the line to prevent flood damage during the heavy wet seasons of the Gulf, a design not found anywhere else in the world.

Experience a friendly atmosphere aboard as the Gulflander ventures across the Gulf Savannah, enjoy morning tea at Blackbull Siding, and hear stories of colourful characters, the remarkable history of the railway line and the local flora and fauna through interpretative commentary provided by the accredited Savannah Guide driver.

Gulflander Seat

- Informative driver trip commentary
- Souvenir trip guide
- Morning tea refreshment at Blackbull Siding, the traditional stop since 1891
- Water and toilet facilities available in each carriage
- Accessibility facilities are not available

Savannahlander

Experience the heritage and rugged natural beauty of the Savannah Country as you travel from Cairns to Forsyth on the Savannahlander.

Departing once a week from March to November, the Savannahlander stops overnight at three different outback towns, including Almaden, Forsyth and Mt Surprise. Enjoy the hospitality of the locals along the tracks when you check-in to your accommodation or relax with a hearty meal at one of the local businesses. Ask your travel agent for timetable and prices.
